Introduction

Introduce children to the alphabet and beginning reading with these Alphabet Reading Strips! Each strip features predictable text that reads, “(Letter) is for (object),” making it simple and engaging for young learners to follow along. These strips are a fantastic tool for building early reading confidence, letter recognition, and sound awareness in preschool and kindergarten.

I have included photos showing how this activity can be used. You may print and store the photo with the activity as a visual instruction card.

What’s Included

- 26 alphabet reading strips (one for each letter A–Z)
- Clear, predictable text: “(Letter) is for (object)”
- Bright and colorful illustrations to support word recognition
- Dots to guide one-to-one correspondence while reading

How to Use

These strips are versatile and can be used in many ways:

- Guided Reading Practice – Use in small groups to model one-to-one tracking and predictable text.
- Independent Reading – Children practice “reading” the strips on their own, using the pictures as support.
- Literacy Centers – Place them in a basket or on a ring for students to explore during center time.
- Partner Reading – Encourage children to read the strips together for fluency and confidence.
- Take-Home Practice – Send strips home for extra alphabet and reading reinforcement with families.

Educational Benefits

- Builds recognition of uppercase and lowercase letters
- Reinforces letter-sound correspondence
- Develops early sight word recognition (is, for)
- Supports one-to-one tracking and print awareness
- Boosts confidence in beginning readers with predictable text

These Alphabet Reading Strips are a simple, low-prep way to help children connect letters, sounds, and words while building reading fluency. With engaging illustrations and repetitive text, they’re perfect for preschool and kindergarten literacy activities.

Happy Teaching :)
