Introduction

This book contains a complete set of 40 pre-primer sight word cards designed for playing “I Have, Who Has?” with children in Preschool, Kindergarten, and Grade 1. This classic card game provides engaging, repetitive practice that helps students build fluency with their first sight words while also encouraging listening and speaking skills.

Directions for preparation

To prepare the cards for classroom or home use:

- Print the pages on cardstock for durability.
- Laminate the cards to allow for reuse year after year.
- Cut along the dashed lines to separate the cards.

How to play

- Distribute the cards evenly among the players. If you have fewer students than cards, simply give each child two or more cards.
- The child with the starting card begins by saying: “I have the first card. Who has [sight word] ?”
- The child holding that sight word responds: “I have [sight word]. Who has [next word] ?”
- Play continues in this call-and-response style until every card has been used and the loop is complete.

Teaching tips & variations

- Small groups or whole class: Works well for literacy centers, reading groups, or as a fun warm-up activity for the whole class.
- Timed challenge: Play against the clock and see how fast the group can complete the full set.
- Independent practice: Keep a laminated set on a ring for fast-finishers to play with partners.
- Family learning: Send home a set for parents to play with their child, making sight word practice fun and interactive outside the classroom.

Educational benefits

- Builds automatic recognition of the 40 pre-primer sight words.
- Strengthens listening comprehension and oral language.
- Encourages cooperative learning and group participation.
- Makes repetitive sight word practice active and enjoyable.

Happy Teaching! :)
